The Partnership ...Hat...

THE hat in question was a fine black straw, nearly flat in shape and tastefully trimmed with pink roses and black lace. And each undivided hair belonged to a different girl, a curious partnership.

The two owners of this very pretty hat were Mary Olden and Minnie Owens. So the initials inside could be shown as proof of the ownership of both or either.

These two young girls worked in a factory where there was much to do and little to earn. They lived in a tiny house quite a mile from the factory. The reason they did this was that they did not like the suroundings in the cheap boarding places where the majority of the factory girls lived, and here they had the advantage of privacy, quiet and the motherly care of the owner of the house.

By dint of great economy both girls had achieved neat black mohair suits for "best," but it seemed impossible for them both to get hats suitable for the mohair costumes for the price which they could afford. The ready to wear hats in vogue at that place did not appeal to either of them, but the others cost too much. So one day, while the question was being discussed, Mrs. Pierce, their landlady, said:

"Why don't you club together and get one real nice hat in partnership?"

"But we couldn't wear it both at once," said Minnie.

"I don't see how it could be managed," said Mary thoughtfully, yet she was ready to be convinced, as they had both fallen in love with the hat mentioned above.

"Why, Minnie goes to 10 o'clock mass in her church 'way downtown, and you go to evening service in another church."

"I might want to go in the evening, too," said Minnie.

"Now, see here; the hat you want is a good investment. It will do over four or five seasons, and the lace is good. New flowers won't cost much. To have it you must make concessions. It costs more than either alone can pay. Fix it this way: Minnie has it one Sunday and Mary the next. And if you do as I say about the churches no one will ever know but you each have one."

"I am willing if Minnie is."

"I'm agreeable," said Minnie. "But who is to wear it first?"

"We'll do as the men do—spin a penny, and if it falls head up it is Mary, and if tails it is Minnie."

"That's fair," said Minnie. Mrs. Pierce, with great gravity, spun a penny, which fell with the Indian's face down. So Minnie was to wear it first.

They bought the hat that night. Both tried it on in their ordinary and then their best suits. Minnie wore a high pompadour and tipped the hat back on her head so that it formed an aureole above her face. Mary brought it down over her brow, as she wore her abundant hair simply parted and braided at the back and coiled there. The hat adapted itself to each pretty face.

It must be admitted that Mary sighed as Minnie walked proudly off that first Sunday. Somehow the bloom was rubbed off the plum ever so little. "I do hope it won't rain," thought Mary.

One day Minnie came home, with very red cheeks, and she was not alone, for young Ferguson, one of the boss foremen, came with her. It was evident that he was desperately in love with her, though his admiring glances fell more often on the hat than on Minnie herself. Minnie took the hat off and gave it to Mary, who suddenly noticed two very big pin holes in the crown. If in three Sundays it was looking to show signs of wear Minnie ought to be more careful. It belonged to her as much as to Minnie, and Minnie was very careless, and the way Minnie wore her hair no hat could be expected to stay on unless it was fairly skewered. Really she must speak to Minnie, but of course not before Mr. Ferguson. So she brushed the hat tenderly, covered it with tissue paper and laid it in the box.

The next Sunday Mary went to church, leaving Minnie the picture of desolation, and Mary did not return alone. Mr. Elverton, the handsome young clerk of the district court, had had his eyes compelled by the sweet face of Mary, but more by the elegant hat, with its fine pink roses half buried in the black lace. It was so different from the fearful and wonderful creations of the local milliners that, man as he was, he noticed it and was drawn to his doom.

Minnie did the most of the talking that afternoon. Mary was filled with a new joy, so great and so wonderful that she had no words. Whenever she raised her limpid eyes to Ormond's face she saw such a light of tenderness and love in his that hers drooped with the wealth of happiness that had come to her. He loved her!

The next Sunday Mary remained at home, and Minnie wore the hat. Mr. Ferguson came home with her. Late in the afternoon Ormond came to ask if Mary were indisposed. He had not seen her at church.

No; Mary was quite well, but women know how to invent excuses that prove one thing while being entirely the other. He remained to tea. During the afternoon mention was made of Memorial day, which would be the following week. Both the men proposed together that they should all go to see the parade in a landau and afterward drive out to the cemetery to decorate the graves. Elverton had quantities of flowers growing in his yard which he would have gathered, and they could take them along. Mary had been tenderly cultivating a few potted plants. Some of them were for the few soldiers who lay in that graveyard and the rest for the father who had laid down his life for the Union. Mr. Ferguson said he had some new silk flags which they could place on the soldiers' graves. The two girls looked at each other with white faces. They said neither "Yes" nor "No" to the invitation, but the men took it for granted that they intended to go and admired them all the more at their evident appreciation of the solemnity of the occasion. Said Ferguson to Minnie:

"You'll wear your new hat, Miss Minnie. You look fine in it. No girl in Brockton has one as nice." They stood by the little gate together, as she had made a pretext to gather him a bouquet. Mary and Ormond were still in the little sitting room.

"You will wear that pretty hat with the roses on, I hope. It is the prettiest hat I ever saw, and you become it."

Mary put her hand to her throat, suddenly choked by the awful thought. To whom would fall the partnership hat for the day? And as soon as the two girls were alone Mary said to Minnie, whose face shone with her happiness:

"What are we going to do?"

"About the hat? Why, it is my turn next Sunday, so instead of Sunday I'll wear it then," replied Minnie coolly.

"Minnie," gasped Mary, "let me wear it and I'll give you my new gloves."

"No, not for twenty pairs," replied Minnie decidedly.

Mrs. Pierce was called. Mary was desperate. Somehow this partnership began to assume unexpected proportions, and she even thought that perhaps it was against the law—such a deception. What if she were to be dragged into court and Ormond obliged to hear the awful truth! The hat had lost its luster, yet he thought it pretty, and she knew it was becoming. Minnie might wear it.

But Mrs. Pierce believed in the ultimate justice of heads and tails, and Mary won. But when she saw Minnie turn white and sway as if about to faint she said:

"Minnie, I won't wear it. You may."

But Minnie was generous, and Mary must wear it. Then neither mentioned it until the eventful day. Twice Minnie tried it on, surreptitiously, with a new arrangement of her hair, sighed and put it away again. Mary said nothing, but felt much like crying all these days. She could not give up her chance of happiness which might depend upon the allurement of this hat, and yet the settled despair of Minnie's set face hurt. Minnie had renounced it and was suffering the pain attendant upon that heroic act.

The girls were at breakfast on that sacred morning, but neither had any appetite. Suddenly Mary sprang up, upsetting her coffee in her hurry, and disappeared in their joint bedroom. Minnie knew that she was coming forth resplendent in that beautiful hat, but instead Mary came out dressed in the deep mourning gown, with the close bonnet and long crape veil, that her mother had worn for so short a time. In her hand she held the partnership hat and gave it to Minnie.

"Oh, Mary, you are a saint!" was all the surprised girl could say, and she hugged Mary out of breath, to the imminent danger of the hat's destruction.

When the handsome landau arrived before the gate the young men came in to help with the flowers. Ferguson looked admiration at Minnie, and as they passed down the walk to put their fragrant load in the carriage he—well, it was all settled then.

Elverton had stood as though transfixed as he saw Mary. Her sweet and gentle beauty had gained a new dignity and something so touching that it appealed to all his tenderness. He said with great respect and admiration and sympathy:

"I scarcely knew you. Have you lost any one?"

At the same time he noted the pearly delicacy of her face against the crape.

"I—I—think black is more fitting for this day. My father was a soldier, you know, and my mother is dead, too, but if you think you would prefer it—I need not go with you."

"Mary, I can keep silence no longer. I do want you to go with me, not only today, but all my life. Will you go?"

And Mary said she would.

THE VATICAN PALACE.

Its Existence Is Mainly Due to the Builder Pope, Nicholas V.

The present existence of the Vatican palace is principally due to Nicholas V., the builder pope, whose gigantic scheme would startle a modern architect. His plan was to build the church of St. Peter's as a starting point and then to construct one vast central habitat for the papal administration, covering the whole of what is called the Borgo, from the castle of Sant' Angelo to the cathedral. In ancient times a portico, or covered way supported on columns, led from the bridge to the church, and it was probably from this real structure that Nicholas began his imaginary one, only a small part of which was ever completed. That small portion alone comprises the basilica and the Vatican palace, which together form by far the greatest continuous mass of buildings in the world. The Coliseum is 195 yards long by 156 broad, including the thickness of the walls. St. Peter's church alone is 205 yards long and 156 broad, so that the whole Coliseum would easily stand upon the ground plan of the church, while the Vatican palace is more than half as large again.

Nicholas V. died in 1455, and the oldest parts of the present Vatican palace are not older than his reign. They are generally known as the Torre Borgia, from having been inhabited by Alexander VI., who died of poison in the third of the rooms now occupied by the library, counting from the library side. The windows of these rooms look upon the large square court of the Belvedere, and that part of the palace is not visible from without.

Portions of the substructure of the earlier building were no doubt utilized by Nicholas, and the secret gallery which connects the Vatican with the mausoleum of Hadrian is generally attributed to Pope John XXIII., who died in 1417, but on the whole it may be said that the Vatican palace is originally a building of the period of the renaissance, to which all successive popes have made additions.

Elevators and False Teeth.

In department stores where express elevators run to roof garden restaurants some gentle passengers experience daily discomfort because of the sudden movement of the car. The proud owner of a fine set of artificial teeth remarked to her companion a few days ago: "This is the most severe test of proper fit of teeth that I know of. Mine are supposed to be correct in every respect. Still, I never travel in an elevator running express that I'm not in constant fear of my teeth taking a fall. If you close the mouth your breath will be taken away."—New York Press.

Water Is Rubber.

Experiments with a hermetically sealed rubber bottle containing water have shown that the rubber is not absolutely water tight. The filled bottle weighed seventeen ounces four drams. At the end of one year the weight was seventeen ounces two drams; nine years, ten ounces; eighteen years, fourteen ounces two drams; twenty-three years, thirteen ounces four drams; twenty-five years, seven ounces eight drams; twenty-eight years, three ounces fourteen drams; thirty years, three ounces twelve drams, the water being entirely gone.

[illegible]

Among the dead of one of the battlefields before Richmond was a young Confederate soldier who lay unburied several days after the conflict. Already the flesh had been eaten by worms from his fingers, but underneath one skeleton hand lay an open Bible, the fingers pressed upon these words of the Twenty-third Psalm: "Thy rod and thy staff they comfort me."

How the Raider Escaped

IN the fall of 1864 the northern part of Virginia was in a great deal of excitement, for the raids of the Confederates had greatly annoyed the generals of the Union forces. At last the Federal commander determined to exterminate the rangers and, with that end in view, sent out a picked corps of mounted men, eager to meet and capture an enemy who boasted that he could not be taken. It was early in the morning of a warm September day when the men in blue found their quarry, coming on them suddenly at the foot of a hill.

For a moment there was a brisk rain of bullets. Several of the men on both sides threw up their arms and fell in the dust, while their foaming, riderless steeds dashed madly down the pike. Then the Confederates broke and fled, with the yelling Yankees close at their heels.

At last a stream was reached, and here the Union men succeeded in capturing several Confederates, but not the leader. He was a small, wiry man, with a frame as strong and tough as steel, one who did not know what fear or defeat meant, and he plunged his animal into the water, lifted his sword high above his head and safely climbed up the opposite bank amid a shower of bullets, accompanied by a shout of admiration from the astonished enemy. In a moment he was out of sight behind the hills.

About a quarter of a mile down the road was a farmhouse, in the sitting room of which a girl sat peeling fruit. The door was open, and just as the girl raised her eyes a horse raced into the yard, with its flanks reeking with water and the rider wet from the tip of his plumed hat to the soles of his cavalry boots.

The man rode into the barnyard and left his steed in the stall, then ran into the house. At that moment the head of the Federal column came over the hill on the gallop. The Confederate saw the line of blue uniforms, the sun flashing on the sabers, and with a hurried glance around he sprang to his feet and ran to the corner, in which stood an old "grandfather's clock." In a moment he had opened the door and slipped inside, and by the time he had closed it again the Union men were trooping into the house.

They began a thorough search of the house from garret to cellar, but not a trace of the man could they find. The beds were torn to bits, the pantries explored, every closet upset and no nook or corner of the place left uninvestigated, but to no purpose. Then the barn was given a good overhauling, and, though they found the wet and saddled horse, there was no trace of the rider. At last all the Union men collected in the sitting room where the young lady sat quietly watching the proceedings and still busy in her household duty of preparing the fruit. They were nonplused and could not imagine what had become of the fugitive.

Now, it happened that the old clock was not running, but had been broken for some time and was full of dust, which the entrance of the ranger had disturbed. In fact, he was in a great predicament. The dust had filled his nostrils, and he felt creep over him the horrible sensation of a coming sneeze. A sneeze meant capture, perhaps death, but the sneeze had to come.

A bright thought flashed into the Confederate's mind, and with a quick motion of his hand he set the old wheels in a whirl, and the rusty gong sounded a sonorous chime. In the cover of the noise the sneeze was born, but it was not heard. However, the sudden waking of the old clock excited [illegible] query, the federal officer moved toward it. The girl was quick to take in the situation. With a fretful air she exclaimed:

"There goes that old clock again. It must really be fixed, for it is so annoying." And the officer, changing his mind, took no more notice of the occurrence. In a few moments the house was deserted and the troops had passed away in the direction of their camps, leaving the rebel to come out from his hiding place a sight to behold. The wet clothes were full of dust and his face gray with the water and mud which covered it, but he was a very happy man. In an hour he was back among his remaining troops.—Kansas City Journal.

Detailed For Baptism.

During the civil war the late Colonel Gabe Bouck organized a regiment, which he controlled as a dictator. It was while the army was resting after Colonel Gabe's first campaign that an itinerant evangelist wandered into camp and, approaching the colonel, asked if he was the commanding officer.

"Ugh!" snorted "Old Gabe," as he was affectionately called. "What do you want?"

"I am a humble servant of the Lord endeavoring to save the souls of the unfortunate. I have just left the camp of the ——th Massachusetts, where I was instrumental in leading eight men into paths of righteousness."

"Adjutant," thundered Colonel Bouck after a moment's pause, "detail ten men for baptism! No Massachusetts regiment shall beat mine for piety!"—Everybody's.

General Longstreet's Story.

"I had resigned from the northern army," said the late General Longstreet at a Georgia campfire, "and was on my way to fight with my state countrymen. One night I reached a small hamlet, and, being almost too tired to care whether friends or foes were there, I stopped and asked for supper and a night's lodging. A nice old colored aunty opened the door and let me in. 'If you'se a southerner,' she said, 'you can have your eggs fried tender. If you'se a northerner they'll be tougher than leather.'

"I had to laugh while I assured her I was a southerner. In the morning I asked for my bill. 'It ain't nothin',' said she, 'if ye're goin' on ter Richmond, but ef ye're goin' hum ter think it over it'll cost yer $10.'"—Philadelphia Press.

A Popular Myth Exploded.

"There is a popular myth," says Colonel Mosby, "that Pope announced in his general order upon taking command that his 'headquarters would be in the saddle.' The fact is that Pope never said any such thing, but it has become an article of faith in the south. To question its truth in Virginia would be regarded as being as great an act of impiety as to discredit the legend of Pocahontas and Captain Smith."

The Word "Asphalt."

Of deceitful ancestry is the word "asphalt." Apparently it means "not slippery." The Greeks themselves were tempted to derive "asphaltos" from "a," not, and "sphallo," make to fall or slip. However, the word is really of unknown barbarian origin—Phoenician, some say. Asphalt was in use very early in history. It is said to have been the slime with which the infant Moses' ark of bulrushes was daubed and which the builders of the tower of Babel used instead of mortar.

Butchery In War.

In one of the Du Guesclin's victories so many English were taken captive that even the humblest soldier among the French had one or more prisoners. The victors, however, fell to quarreling, and, ill feeling becoming rife in the French army in consequence of these quarrels over the prisoners, Du Guesclin ordered all the captives to be butchered, and the brutal order was carried out.

A Cautious Lover.

A correspondent of the London Globe tells of a gilded youth who left instructions at a jeweler's shop for the inscription of an engagement ring he had just bought. He wanted it inscribed, "From Bertie to Maud." As he left he turned back and added as an after thought, "I shouldn't—ah—ent 'Maud' too deep, don't you know."

Era of Actium.

The "era of Actium," adopted during the early days of the Roman empire, commemorates the great victory gained by Octavius over the troops of Antony and Cleopatra, Jan. 1, B. C. 30. It was often used among the Romans both in writing and colloquially, just as in England people speak of events as occurring before or after the conquest, or as persons in this country frequently refer to events as having happened before or after the war.

At Gettysburg Today

THE fields of Gettysburg are green
Where once the red blood ran.
The oak leaves throw a dancing sheen
Where perished horse and man;
The saplings whisper on the hill
Where rolled a fiery tide,
And song birds splash the laughing rill
Where armies fought and died.

A marble sentry scans the field
And granite cannons frown
Where dusty regiments once wheeled
And shot and shell rained down,
But o'er the sentry's martial face
Now sits the cooing dove,
Breaking the silence of the place
With murmuring notes of love.

A MARBLE SENTRY SCANS THE FIELD.

The only colors in the glades
Are those of buds and flowers;
The swift and sudden fusillades
Are made by passing showers.
Huge hay carts now are chariot cars;
And soldiers, boys at play;
The only campfires are the stars;
The fiery glory, day.

Thank God that all things in this life
Together move for right;
That Night and her half sister, Strife,
Shall die in joy and light;
That through a mystery above
His mercies ne'er shall cease;
That out of hate shall issue love,
And out of war come peace.

Octopus and Conger Eel.

Conger eels hunt for the octopus and when found, proceed to browse on its limbs. The octopus tries to hug the slippery, slimy conger tight, but in vain, and, finding its limbs growing less, discharges its ink in the face of the foe and, under cover of the turbid water, beats a hasty retreat. It is to escape the too pressing attention of its foes that the octopus possesses the power of changing its color to correspond with that of its surroundings.

FLAYS THE PRESIDENT

Bailey and Tillman Accuse Him of Breaking Faith With Them.

TILLMAN ISSUES STATEMENT

Says Roosevelt Made Deal to Pass Rate Bill With Limited Court Review Amendment, But Left Them In Lurch—Bailey's Bitter Attack.

Washington, May 1[illegible].—Senator Tillman, who made a statement in the senate covering the details of his and Senator Bailey's negotiations through ex-Senator Chandler with President Roosevelt to pass the rate bill with the Bailey limited court review amendment by a combination of 26 Democratic and 20 Republican votes, made public a portion of a written statement made to him by Mr. Chandler of his various conferences with the president on this subject. The portion given out by Mr. Tillman is largely a repetition of the latter part of his statement in the senate. It covers, however, that portion where Mr. Tillman had quoted Mr. Chandler as saying that the president had stated that he had come to a complete disagreement with the senatorial lawyers who were trying to defeat or injure the bill, naming Messrs. Knox, Spooner and Foraker, regarding which statement Senator Lodge subsequently said he was authorized to say from the White House that it was an unqualified falsehood. On this subpect Mr. Chandler, referring to the president, said in his written statement:

"He said that he had been much troubled by the advocacy of an unlimited court review by some of the lawyers of the senate—naming Senators Knox, Spooner and Foraker as trying to injure or defeat the bill by ingenious constitutional arguments, but that he had come to a complete disagreement with them. He made this point emphatic by repetition, said that he would go thus far and no farther, and that his decision would be unalterable. He said that he wished to ascertain whether there could be united action in the senate among the friends of the bill, so that it could be surely passed without injurious amendments, and he named various Republican senators who he thought were true friends of the bill, but said that it would take nearly all the Democrats to carry the limitation and defeat all obnoxious provisions.

"After the president had made his statement I replied that I had reason to believe that most of the Democrats in the senate would sustain his limitation of the court's powers, but that I was sure that Mr. Bailey and Mr. Tillman would insist upon coupling with the limitation some restriction upon the power of the courts to issue injunctions against the orders of the commission. Before I had finished my statement on this point the president interrupted me, saying that I need not explain further, because he was warmly in favor of some such restriction.

"That evening I saw Mr. Tillman and told him what had occurred."

The attacks of Bailey and Tillman upon the president were evidently concerted. Bailey was the first to deliver his broadside. He mercilessly flayed Mr. Roosevelt as a quitter on tariff revision and on other great questions that have come up, until finally he has quit on the rate bill at a time when he had an opportunity to mount to the plane of Jefferson, Jackson and Lincoln. His closing words were the most sensational that have been uttered in the senate in many a day. He said:

"Let us have no more talk in the senate and talk in the country about this iron man. He is clay, and very common clay at that."

Senator Lodge said he called the president up on the telephone.

"I read the sentence to president," said Senator Lodge, "and he said in reply that the statement which I read to him, attributed to him by Mr. Chandler, was a deliberate and unqualified falsehood; that Senator Foraker's name was never mentioned at all in the conversation; that Senator Spooner's name was only mentioned by him to express a cordial approval of Senator Spooner's amendment. As to Senator Knox, he said that he did not agree with a portion of his proposed amendment, but thought that he made a very strong argument for granting affirmatively the jurisdiction or authority of the court."

The issue as to the falsehood lies between the president and ex-Senator Chandler.

THE APACHES.

This Tribe Holds the Record as Bad Indians.

Scarcely a tribe of our American Indians but what have engraved their record of crime and infamy high up on history's wall, yet above them all is the Apaches'.

From 1540 to 1853 New Spain and Mexico carried on a so called warfare with these people. The Apaches were vastly outnumbered by the Mexican soldiery, but what they lacked in numbers was more than made up in courage and craftiness. The Apache ever had a thorough contempt for the Mexican soldier, and in later years, when they were fighting with firearms as well as arrows, they would not waste cartridges on the Mexicans, but would kill them with arrows, spears and stones, saving their cartridges for other and more worthy foes.

When this southwest region became a part of the United States the Apaches were a serious problem with which we had to contend. Our government vacillated between a simpering peace policy and the other extreme, their extermination.

Their zone of wandering being intersected by the international boundary line further complicated matters. They would raid down into Mexico and then rush back with the plunder to our side of the line, out of reach of the pursuing soldiers. Next it would be a raid on the Arizona side and a flight into the wild mountains of Sonora. The Mexican government attempted to assist their miserable army by giving a scalp bounty, and for years they paid out their gold coin for Apache scalps. Scalp hunting became a recognized industry. The horror of this was that to the Mexican official all scalps looked alike, whether from the head of a hostile or a friendly Indian. The price was $100 for a man, $50 for a woman and $25 for a child. It is small wonder that the tribe sank deeper into savagery than ever when we stop to think that the men knew there was a price set on the scalps of their wives and children, and there was a horde of human fiends, white in color, but more savage than the savage himself, who were hunting them as they would a cougar of the mountains.—E. S. Curtis in Scribner's.

QUICKER THAN LIGHTNING.

Action of the Human Body Outstrips Everything In Motion.

"As quick as lightning" is a phrase colloquially used to express the maximum of rapidity, but, according to a well known scientist, electricity itself is outstripped by that old fashioned machine, the human body, by which it appears powers can, so to speak, be generated in the brain, transmitted through the nerves and developed in the muscles in an infinitesimal fraction of a second.

It is stated that a pianist in playing a presto of Mendelssohn played 5,595 notes in four minutes and three seconds. The striking of each of these, it has been estimated, involved two movements of the finger and possibly more.

Again, the movements of the wrist, elbows and arms can scarcely be less than one movement for each note. As twenty-four notes were played each second and each involves three movements we would have seventy-two voluntary movements per second.

Again, the place, the force, the time and the duration of each of these movements were controlled. All these motor reactions were conditioned upon a knowledge of the position of each finger of each hand before it was moved, while moving it, as well as of the auditory effect to force and pitch, all of which involves equally rapid sensory transmissions.

If we add to this the work of the memory in placing the notes in their proper position as well as the fact that the performer at the same time participates in the emotion the selection describes and feels the strength and weaknesses of the performance, we arrive at a truly bewildering network of impulses coursing along at inconceivably rapid rates.

Such estimates show, too, that we are capable of doing many things at once. The mind is not a unit, but is composed of higher and lower centers, the available fund of attention being distributed among them.—Pearson's Weekly.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR PARADE

Seven Thousand, With 35 Bands, in Line in Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 23.—Seven thousand Knights Templar of Pennsylvania made up the marching body of the 53d annual conclave of that order, and with weather that was ideal marched through the streets of Pittsburg and Allegheny beneath flying banners and between cheering crowds that flanked the entire line of march. The procession was ont hour and a half in passing a given point. Commanderies from every section of the state turned out representative bodies, and in almost every instance accompanied by a band. Of the latter there were 35 in line.

The reviewing stand was in Allegheny, and as the commanderies marched past they saluted the grand commandery officers, and the procession was dismissed. The 35 bands then consolidated, and in one massive organization of about 1000 pieces marched past the reviewing stand to the martial strains of "Onward Christian Soldiers."

The grand commandery sessions were begun in the afternoon, Right Eminent Commander William J. Diehl presiding. Mayor Guthrie, who is a 33d degree Mason, welcomed the grand commandery on behalf of the city, and Commander Diehl responded.

BELIEVE THEY HAVE MURDERER

Officers of Two Cities Think They Have Negro Wanted In Maryland.

Binghamton, N. Y., May 23. — The Binghamton police believe that they have captured Al Carter, Rainey or Riley, the negro wanted for the murder of Thomas Rinehart at Dorsey's Run, Md., and who is reported to have been arrested and confessed at Bridgeton, N. J. The man arrested here under the name of Wallace Templeton exactly answers the Bertillon measurements sent out by the Maryland authorities as those of Carter. Even a broken tooth which Templeton has answers the description in the circular from Maryland.

HABITS OF THE RICH.

Samples of Millionaire Extravagance In the Metropolis.

Zola in his youth, before fame came to him, wrote some stories about millionaires, wherein it seemed to him he exaggerated shamefully in his descriptions of the costly homes and habits of the rich, but later on, when Zola became a friend of millionaires, he found that his accounts of their extravagance had fallen far short of the truth.

In the same way stories about the extravagance of American millionaires that sound like exaggerations may also fall short of the truth. Here, for instance, are some facts that an interior decorator of New York supplied the other day. They sound extreme, but let Zola be remembered.

A man bought for his hall twelve antique marble columns at Pompeii. Finding he could use only eight of the columns he had the remaining four destroyed; although he was offered for them twice what he had paid. He had paid $5,000 apiece.

Aubusson carpets, with a pile three inches thick, are often made to order at a cost of $40 a yard. Such a cost, though, is nothing beside what is ordinarily paid for antique rugs. They, measured by the yard, often cost $500 or $600 a yard.

Chairs of ivory inlaid with wood are occasionally sold at $500 apiece.

One millionaire's piano cost $150,000. A five inch band of ivory, four years in the carving, runs around the case, which was decorated by Everett Shinn.

The gold and silver plate of one household requires an expert to look after it. The man is a goldsmith, and his salary is $2,000 a year.

Billiard rooms sometimes cost $50,000 to furnish. The tables and cues are inlaid with ivory and gold.

Certain wines—Schloss Johannesberg, for instance, stamped with the crest of Prince Matternich—are sold at private sales to millionaires for $40 and $50 a bottle.

Automobiles of ninety or more horsepower, made to order, will cost from $30,000 to $40,000. Some millionaires keep a dozen or more automobiles, with a head chauffeur at $4,000 or $5,000 a year salary and two or three assistants at $25 a week each.

Then there is the ocean going yacht, which cannot be maintained in the most modest way at a smaller annual expenditure than $25,000.—New York Press.

A PESSIMIST'S QUESTIONS.

Why is it that a cleaning of windows is the signal for a rainstorm?

Why is John always late the night the cook is out and visitors are expected in the evening?

And why, oh, why, do visitors always come the one afternoon in the week when one is not dressed to receive them?

Why does a woman think she has so much better taste than her richer neighbor if she but had as much money to gratify it?

Why is it that a leak in the pipe is always discovered Saturday afternoon, when a plumber cannot be found until Monday morning?

Why is it that when one has made a purchase one sees ten minutes later something else which would have been better or cheaper or more becoming?—Philadelphia Ledger.

Not to Be Trifled With.

Love had just laughed at the locksmith.

"Why don't you laugh at the milliner and the landlord and the grocer?" asked a bystander.

"Because," replied Love, "they always make me feel mighty serious."—Houston Post.

Students Ducked Hotel Man.

Andover, Mass., May 23.—Between 15 and 20 boys, students at the Phillips-Andover academy, will be expelled from the school, it was announced, because of their participation last Friday night in a scheme which resulted in John M. Stewart, the proprietor of Phillips Inn, being roughly handled and thrown into Rabbit pond. This action was taken because the boys believed that Stewart had reported one of their number to the school faculty for violating the school regulations.

The left side of the face is usually considered by artists to be more beautiful than the right.

THE GIANTS OF OLD

ANCIENT RACES MARVELS OF PHYSICAL DEVELOPMENT.

The Semibarbarians of One Thousand Years Ago Were All Remarkably Proportioned Men—The Giants of Ancient Greece and Rome.

That the human race has degenerated in size as well as longevity is a fact well attested by various authorities. A prominent Washington physician who has made a life study of brain and cerebral developments, says that, on visiting the catacombs of Paris, what struck him most in those vast repositories of the contents of the city's ancient graveyards was the great size of the skulls in comparison with those of more modern mankind. This superiority of development in the men who lived 1,000 years or more ago he attributes to the open air life then in vogue and the physical exercises indulged in.

The several races of giants mentioned in the Bible, and the Greek and Roman historians have recorded many instances which serve to show that the existence of elongated humanity were by no means rare at one period of the world's history.

It is recorded that the Emperor Maximinus was eight feet some inches high. The body of Orestes, according to the Greeks, was eleven and a half feet in height, the giant Galbora, brought from Arabia to Rome under Claudius Caesar, measured near ten feet, and the bones of Secondilla and Pusio, keepers of the gardens of Sallust, were but six inches shorter.

The probability is that outside of cultivated Greece and Rome among the semibarbarous of the greater part of present day European nations physical development reached often to more wondrous proportions.

The Chevalier Scory in his voyage to the peak of Tenerife says that they found in one of the sepulchral caverns of that mountain the head of a Guanche which had eighty teeth and that the body was not less than fifteen feet long. The giant Ferragus, slain by Orlando, nephew of Charlemagne, was eighteen feet high.

Reviand, a celebrated anatomist who wrote in 1614, says that some years before that time there was to be seen in the suburbs of St. Germane the tomb of the giant Isoret, who was twenty feet high.

At Rouen in 1509, in digging in the ditches near the Dominicame, there was found a stone tomb containing a skeleton whose shin bone reached up to the girdle of the tallest man there, being about four feet long, and consequently the body must have been seventeen or eighteen feet high. Upon the tomb was a plate of copper upon which was engraved, "In this tomb lies the noble and puissant lord, the Chevalier Ruon de Vallemont, and his bones." There is, indeed, evidence in the ponderous armor and two handed swords which remain to us in museums to prove that the knight of the ages of chivlary was a heroic specimen of human architecture.

Platerius, a famous physician, declared that he saw at Lucarne the true human bones of a subject who must have been at least nineteen feet high.

Valance, in Dauphine, boasts of possessing the bones of the giant Bucart, tyrant of the Vivarais, who was slain by an arrow by the Count de Cabillon, his vassal. The Dominicans had a part of his shin bone, with the articulation of the knee, and his figure painted in fresco, with an inscription showing that this giant was twenty-two and one-half feet high and that his bones were found in 1705 near the banks of the Moderi, a little river at the foot of the mountain of Crusol, upon which (tradition says) the giant dwelt.

On Jan. 11, 1633, some masons digging near the ruins of a castle in Dauphine, in a locality which had long been known as the Giant's field, at the depth of eighteen feet discovered a brick tomb thirty feet long, twelve feet wide and eight feet high, on which was a gray stone, with the words "Theotobochus Rex" cut thereon. When the tomb was opened they found a human skeleton, entire, twenty-five and one-half feet long, ten feet wide across the shoulders and five feet deep from the breastbone to the back. The teeth were each about the size of an ox's foot, and his shin bone measured four feet.

Near Margarino, in Sicily, in 1516, was found a giant thirty feet high. His head was the size of a hogshead, and each of his teeth weighed five ounces.

The Italian Baby.

No infant receives a warmer welcome to the world or is more happily born than the Italian baby. No infant is the object of more caresses or is more fondly admired. Indeed, no matter how poor the mother and father may be, no matter how large the family, they have very merry times when another son or daughter comes to them. The neighbors are invited in, a feast is prepared, a gallon or two of cheap wine is procured, and the merriment sometimes lasts several days. The Italian considers there are only three great events in the life of man—namely, his birth, marriage and death. These three events never pass without a gorgeous and elaborate celebration. In this simple way they strive to carry out the tender life lesson: "When you were born you wept while those around you smiled. So live that when you die you alone may smile and those around you weep." And so they laugh and drink wine and sing, for they believe it will have an effect upon the life of the quivering form soon to take its place among them.—London Standard.

Human Life the Music of the Gods.

Somewhere it is said that human life is the music of the gods—that its sobs and laughter, its songs and shrieks and orisons, its outcries of delight and of despair, rise never to the hearing of the immortals but as a perfect harmony. Wherefore they could not desire to hush the tones of pain. It would spoil their music! The combination, without the agony tones, would prove a discord unendurable to ears divine. And in one way we are like unto the gods, since it is only the sum of the pains and the joys of past lives innumerable that makes for us, through memory organic, the ecstasy of music. All the gladness and the grief of dead generations come back to haunt us in countless forms of harmony and melody. Even so—a million years after we shall have ceased to view the sun—will the gladness and the grief of our own lives pass with richer music into other hearts, there to barter, for one mysterious moment, some deep and exquisite thrilling of voluptuous pain.—Lafcadio Hearne.

CAN'T BE SEPARATED,

Some Bellefonte People Have Learned How To Get Rid of Both.

Backache and kidney ache are twin brothers.

You can't separate them.

And you can't get rid of the backache until you cure kidney ache.

If the kidneys are well and strong the rest of the system is pretty sure to be in vigorous health.

Doan's Kidney Pills make strong, healthy kidneys.

Mrs. Nancy Davis, of 246 East Logan Street, says: "I suffered a bad fall some years ago when living in Rochester. I thought at first that I had broken my back. I was unable to get up without assistance and from that time I suffered for years with a weak back and excruciating pains through the loins and through the small of my back. Sometimes I was completely prostrated and helpless. Doctors and medicines failed to help me and the pain continued until I got Doan's Kidney Pills. I took only a few doses before I began to feel better and when I had continued using them for a while I was thoroughly cured. My back regained its strength and the pain left me. I have had no return of the trouble since."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

THE WOMAN WHO COUGHED.

ruined me. It had eaten away the partition in my nose; produced Asthma, Bronchitis, Rheumatism; ruined my stomach; in fact, gone all through my system. Then Grip finished me. I was a wreck; took cold at nothing; and coughed day and night. The doctors dosed me with opium and quinine. No good. Cough "cures"? Bah! Then Brazilian Balm renovated me. Killed every germ. Took 10 $1.00 bottles. Now I'm like a girl of 18.

Bulow's Wonderful Memory.

Bulow had a wonderful memory, as was evidenced by his astonishing feat of memorizing Kiel's concerto, which the man who wrote it could not accompany without notes. His accuracy was almost infallible. He was once rehearsing a composition of Liszt's for orchestra in that composer's presence without notes. Liszt interrupted to say that a certain note should have been played piano. "No," replied Bulow, "it is sforzando." "Look and see," persisted the composer. The score was produced. Bulow was right. How everybody did applaud! In the excitement one of the brass wind players lost his place. "Look for a b flat in your part," said Bulow, still without his notes. "Five measures farther on I wish to begin."

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Don't Know it.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or setting indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What to Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in 50c. and $1. sizes.

You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful discovery and a book that tells more about it, both sent absolutely free by mail, address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY'S POSITION

The great struggle is on. The questionof the hour is—who will be the Governor of Pennsylvania? There can be only one answer to the question. The next Governor of the State should be and will be a Republican. The next Governor should be a Republican because the old Commonwealth is the greatest of all Republican states. Her splendid majorities for the party's ticket are the endorsement of our glorious principles. The next Governor should be a Republican because all of the wonderful prosperity throughout our great state is due to Republican laws and Republican policies. The next Governor should be a Republican because the people of Pennsylvania demand a man of the highest type of American man-hood in the Governor's chair at Harrisburg and because the old party has a number of men who measure up to the requirements.

Wm. H. Berry may be named by the Prohibition Party as her candidate for Governor, he may be indorsed by the Democracy but this will only awaken thousands of Reform Republicans to their duty. They will throw down their Reform banners and will rush to the victorious Republican columns. Berry was elected last fall to "lift the lid" off the State treasury. Has he done it? And now he is asked to accept a nomination for Governor! All his election platform will be amere sham if he leaves his task with all his promises unfulfilled. "Any thing to beat the Republican Party' will again be the battle cry. But nothing can defeat our nominee this fall for the party has a position and at any cost we will maintain it. The Republican hosts will not retreat a single inch and will carry the state by magnificent majorities.

Our position in this campaign is already the position of Victory, we have only to meet the enemy and they are ours. We are united and we will trust our state convention to name the ticket and Centre county with 66 other counties will do the rest.

Oddly Shaped Spiders.

The most peculiar spiders in the world, as well as the largest ones, inhabit the island of Sumatra. They are of all conceivable forms and colors, and some of them spin threads almost as large and strong as the grocer's twine. Some queerly shaped spiders have square bodies poised on long red legs, and others have crooked green and yellow legs which support heart shaped bodies. One of the very oddest of the lot has a body that looks like that of a young turtle, the "shell" having round knobs and pear shaped projections all over it.

Monument to a Fish.

A "tombstone" which is to be seen in the garden of Fish cottage, Blockley, a picturesque village in South Worcestershire, is believed to be the only fish's tombstone in existence. The inscription is as follows:

In Memory of the Old Fish.
Under the soil the old Fish, do, lie.
Twenty years, he, lived and then, did, die.
He was so tame you, understand
He would, come, and eat, out, of, our, hand.
Died April the 20th, 1885.
Aged 20 years.

Union of Presbyterian Denomination Now in full Force and Effect.

Dr. Hunter Corbett, the Moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly at Des Moines, Ia., declared the union of the Presbyterian Church of the United State and the Cumberland Presbyterian Church completed at 10:21 o'clock Thursday morning as follows:

"I do solemnly declare and hereby publicly announce that the basis of reunion and union is now in full force and effect and that the Cumberland Presbyterian Church is now reunited with the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America as one church."

The big ecclesiastical assemblage burst into a storm of rejoicing. Handclapping, cheering and waving of handkerchiefs gave expression of unalloyed pleasure.

The dramatic scene of the ceremonies attending the formal union of the churches was the vote against union by two commissioners. Moderator Corbett put the question, which was in the form of a resolution, and called for the affirmative vote to be expressed by the commissioners rising to their feet. Instantly the Assembly hall was converted into a stamping, cheering crowd. As the hand clapping and cheering died down and the commissioners took their seats, the Moderator said:

"All who are of the opinion that the motion should not prevail will please rise."

Two commissioners rose to their feet. One of the men was Dr. William Laurie of Bellefonte, Pa., and the other was Rev. Roger F. Cressy of Jacksonville, Ill. Dr, Laurie is a stalwart Scotchman, and said:

"Greatly as I dislike to record my vote against this union and deeply as I feel the pain of being forced to disagree with my fathers and brother, I yet cannot conscientiously vote for this union. It is purely a question between me and my God. I have to oppose it."

A motion was made that the negative vote should be recorded. Cries of "No" were raised.

Dr. Laurie was on his feet immediately, declaring: I desire that the negative vote shall be recorded. I never yet was ashamed to stand by my convictions."

The record was duly made.

Coleville Advancing.

The Coleville Bible School, since its organization in wintry weather of February last, has some Sabbaths had an attendance of 110. Until last Sunday the school has depended upon Bellefonte for conductors and instruction.

Most of its members have committed to memory and recited the first and most important Scripture lessons "in the words of eternal life," viz, The Lord's Prayer, The Ten Commandments, The Beatitudes, The 23rd Psalm etc., and these lessons they will continue to repeat in concert one each of them every Sabbath. The three or four different religious denominations there are represented in the corps of officers elected, viz., James H. Rine, John Billett, Superintendents, Mrs. Saul Barlett, Secretary—Treasurer and Mrs. Frank Houser Assistant, Mrs. Charles Hartsock, Librarian and Miss Agnes Miller, Organist.

The present month they use Boston quarterlies; later on lesson helps from other sources, then the officers and teachers will decide upon the kind of quarterlies etc., to be adopted for permanent use. Every Sabbath so far, all the members of the school have received picture papers all of them donated by several Boards of Publication including, The Nat. Temp. Soc. Am. S. S. U., The M. E. B. C., The P. B. F. etc. Prizes also donated, have been presented to the scholars for learning special lessons. All the grants made without charge because the Publishing Societies named believe in unanimity where none is for self but all for the common cause, We have been thus particular in this report, on account of its widely denominational and national application.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

Friday afternoon twenty-three members of the Hiker's Club, accompanied by Physical Director, Godfrey, Prof. Franck and General Secretary, Meserve, walked to the bridge at Intersection. A swim in which the whole party participated, was the first event, after which a basket lunch was disposed of. Mr. Godfrey photographed the party in various poses and the return hike was begun. A mountain fire attracted the attention of the weary wanderers and Y. M. C. A. Fire Company No. 1 was hastily formed. The flames were shortly subdued and the smoldering earth was left for the much desired rain.

The boys are urging that Intersection be again visited on tramp number five, which will occur next week.

A Humane Act.

A humane act was witnessed by passers-by on North Water street at noon Monday, when Norman Myers, a railroad man rescued a cat from the top of a 35 foot telephone pole, where it had been chased by dogs last Thursday. Being unable to crawl down the cat seated itself on the upper cross-arm where without food or water it remained for four days until rescued.

As Mr. Myers did not possess a pair of spurs he had a difficult task scaling the pole in a down-pour of rain.

EIGHT YEARS AN INVALID.

Mrs. Austin B Ammerman Succumbs to a Lingering Illness

Mrs Mary Jane, wife of Austin B. Ammerman, died at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Simon Nearhoof, of Tyrone, at 11.15 o'clock Sunday morning, of consumption. She has been in ill health for about eight years and for the past two years had been failing rapidly. On this account her husband and herself were obliged to give up housekeeping and had made their home with her parents for some time past.

The deceased was aged 42 years, 9 months and 19 days. She was born August 8, 1863, in Centre county. On July 14, 1888 she was united in marriage to Austin B. Ammerman and they had since resided in Tyrone. Of their four children, three sons died, and surviving with the husband is only one daughter, Goldie Leora. Mrs. Ammerman is also survived by her parents, one brother, Abner Nearhoof, of Tyrone; and four sisters.

The funeral took place at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Interment in Tyrone cemetery.

State D. A. R's. Honor a State College Young Woman.

Miss Bess Glenn, the only young woman in the Senior class of one hundred men at Pennsylvania State College, was, last week, awarded the fifty dollar prize annually offered by the State Daughters of American Revolution for the best historical essay on Pre Revolutionary Days in Pennsylvania. The testimonial was established some time ago by Miss Julia K. Hogg and in awarding it this year, the chairman of the committee said of Miss Glenn's essay, which covered only the years '74-'76, 'It is the best presented since the establishment of the testimonial."

It is no small honor to have come to a State College girl since it was in competition with senior women in all the colleges in Pennsylvania.

Death of Mrs. J. B. Goheen.

Mrs. Mary Ann Goheen, wife of John B. Goheen, died at her residence near Baileyville, in Ferguson twp, at midnight, Thursday, 24th inst., aged 61 years. Mrs. Goheen was the daughter of George Bailey, deceased, and leaves five children; two sons and three daughters. Her sons are Dr. Geo. B. Goheen of Coalport, Pa., and R Hamill Goheen of Spring Pa. Her three daughters are at home. Mrs. Goheen was a conscientious christian woman, always faithful in the discharge of her duties to her family and prompt in attendance upon the means of grace. She possessed "the ornament of a meek and quiet spirit."

Funeral will take place from her late residence on Saturday at 3 p. m. Interment in the Presbyterian cemetery at Graysville, Pa.

Look After the Boy

It is often wondered why so many young men can be seen loafing upon our streets until a late hour of night. Many of them are from the best homes. The fathers of these young men, many of them at least, are numbered among our best citizens. If their cow or their horse or even their favorite dog was away from home after dark they would be out on a search, but their own children can roam the town all night with apparently no effort being made to find them. The boy seems to be turned loose at a tender age to wander at will.

It is a regretable fact that too many specimens of worthless humanity come from seed germinated in good homes and then sown in a careless manner upon streets and back alleys. It is not intimated that this evil exists to a greater extent in this community than in neighboring towns, but the evil seems universal and increases in magnitude as the years roll by.

Cut off Right Leg to Stop Blood Poison.

William T. Wilson, a paperhanger, of Williamsport, has submitted to the amputation of the right leg above the knee, in an effort to stop the ravages of blood-poisoning.

It is an unusual case, and there seems to be but one explanation of the origin of the poisoning. Last winter Mr. Wilson suffered from cracked fingers. Each night they were treated with healing salve, but they continued to crack. It now seems certain that arsenic from the wall papers he handled worked in to his system through his sore fingers, gradually poisoning his blood.

A Law for Tramps.

Statistics prepared by the chairman of the Boston overseers of the poor show that the number of tramps sheltered by sixty four towns in Massachusetts has decreased 71 per cent, during the year ending April 1st. The change is credited to the work test ordered by a statue enacted last year. Pennsylvania should have such a law. Centre county should not harbor an able bodied tramp. Help on the farm is short every place. Prosperity is general. A man who can work should be made to work where labor is in demand. Let us have the Massachusetts law when the next Legislature meets.

CHANGING MEMORIAL DAY.

A Popular Movement to Adopt the Last Sunday in May.

There is a movement on foot among Grand Army men to change Memorial day from May 30th to the last Sunday of May, and the suggestion is meeting with much popular favor. The old soldier claims that Memorial day as now celebrated does not belong to him; that it is turned into a day of sports, frolics and too often dissipation, and that the real significance is lost sight of or forgotten, and the lessons of patriotism, formerly associated with the day are no longer taught. There is much reason in the contention, and the adoption of a Sunday for the combined memorial services and patriotic observance would obviate the secular features which are now inseparable from Memorial day. It is not to be expected that young people will refrain from outdoor recreations of all kinds on a secular holiday and there is no desire to find fault with them for their characteristic manner of observing the 30th of May, but the old soldiers are entitled to their day. At the coming national encampment in Minneapolis the change of date will be discussed, and probably acted upon, if what appears to be the present sentiment prevails.

Death of Ira J. Williams.

At 4:17 o'clock Wednesday afternoon Ira J. Williams, a well known resident of Altoona, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. James Linck, at Scalp Level, Pa., of abdominal trouble. He had been ailing for several months. Deceased was born at Bellefonte, Centre county, and was aged 50 years. He had resided in this city for a number of years. He was married in 1880 to Miss Frances Kirk, who preceded him to the grave. He is survived by the following children: H. C. and R. A. Williams and Mrs. James Linck and Miss Isabelle, of Scalp Level. He is also survived by two brothers, John and Owen Williams, of Altoona. The funeral took place this Saturday morning at Windber, mass was celebrated in St. John's Catholic church and interment made in St. John's cemetery.

A Treat in Store.

It will be a notable day for the Centre County S. S. Association at its convention in Howard on Friday, June 1st. Rev. Dr's. Platts, Stein and Schmidt of Bellefonte, Messrs Irvin, DeGroff and Miss Lincoln of Philadelphia and others will deliver addresses. For $12.00 Baum's tallyho will leave Bellefonte at 7.30 a. m., returning at the close of the evening session. Delegates and any others desiring to improve this opportunity for pleasure and instruction will hand their names early to Missioner Crittenden.

Not less than sixteen possibly two more, can take this delightful trip for a very enjoyable occasion.

Locust Coming

Millions of locusts bearing the cabalistic letters "W. W." on their vari-colored wings are literally overrunning Kentucky and the superstitious regard their coming as an ill omen. The letters are translated as "war and want," and many people in this section are firmly convinced that a season of disaster is at hand.

Richard Brooks, a farmer of Glasgow, says he remembers well the visitation of locusts in 1889 when they bore on their wings the letters "P. P." which was taken to mean peace and prosperity.

Funeral of Joseph Marshall.

The funeral of the late Joseph L. Marshall, occurred from his home in Benner Township, Thursday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. The services were held in the Buffalo Run Presbyterian church by Rev. W. K. Harnish, assisted by Rev. Platts, of Bellefonte. A choir composed of Dr. Platts; Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Meyer; Mrs. A. M. Schmidt, and Dorsey Hunter, rendered several beautiful hymns. Miss Martha McKnight, presiding at the organ. Interment was made in the Buffalo Run cemetery.

Reappointed Reformatory Manager.

Last Thursday A. G. Morris, of Tyrone, completed ten years' efficient service as a member of the board of managers of the Pennsylvania Industrial Reformatory at Huntingdon, and on Friday morning he received notice of his reappointment by Governor Pennypacker for another term of ten years. The honor is most worthily bestowed, for Mr. Morris has given unsparingly of his time and good judgment to the important work which the board of managers have in charge. He takes an intimate interest in the administration of the affairs of the institution which is managed with the most advanced practical understanding of social science.

—Harry M. Allison met with quite a painful accident this Tuesday, while at work in the Allison's mill at Spring Mills. In some manner his left hand caught in a corn sheller and the first and second fingers on that hand were torn off. Mr. Allison has been unfortunate before, having just a short time ago recovered from a serious operation which laid him up for sometime.

DR. JOHN F. ALEXANDER

Death of One of Centre Hall's Well Known Physicians.

Dr. John F. Alexander, one of Centre Hall's well known residents, and a very successful physician, passed away at his home this morning at 2:30 o'clock of tuberculosis of the spine. The disease was the result of an accident which occurred several years ago in which Dr. Alexander, during a runaway was thrown from a buggy injuring his spine severely. Although able to be about he suffered a great deal and about six week ago took his bed from which he never arose again.

Dr. John F. Alexander was born in Penns Valley February 22nd, 1849 making his age at the time of his death just 57 years 3 months and 7 days. He was the son of Amos Alexander, one of the sturdy old pioneer settlers of Penns Valley. He was graduated from, Dickinson Seminary and later from a medical college in Cleveland, Ohio. Soon after graduating he began the practice of medicine at Centre Hall where he has been located ever since building up a large and lucrative practice. He was a member of the Reformed church and at one time an elder in the church. He belonged to the Masonic order being a member of the Centre Hall lodge.

He was married twice his first wife being Miss Agnes Elizabeth Shimp, she preceeding him to the grave several years ago. His second wife who survives him was formerly Miss Lillian Allison.

He leaves beside his wife the following children: Emily at home and Mrs. George Reed, of Los Angeles, California.

He also leaves two brothers and one sister as follows: Christian of Millheim, A. R. of Buffalo, Missouri, and Miss Katherine, of Los Angeles, California.

The funeral will take Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. Interment at Centre Hall.

State Wins Track Meet.

In their annual track meet at State College Saturday, State defeated her old-time rivals Dickinson, by the score of 86 to 18. Dunn the present holder of State's record in the hammer throw broke his own record by throwing the hammer almost 129 feet. This was the only record broken. Owing to a strong wind blowing the time in the sprints was slow. At the close of the meeting Hi Henry of Punxsutawney, was elected Captain of the track team for next year

Only Six Survive.

When Judge Mayer held his first court in Clearfield county in 1869 there were only fifteen members of the Clearfield Bar. In May of the same year, Thomas H. Murray and David L. Krebs were admitted, making seventeen. Of these seventeen only six survive: Hon. J. B. McEnally, Frank Feilding, William D. Bigelow, T. H. Murray and D. L. Krebs, of Clearfield, and Frank Barrett, now of California.

Philosophers and Traffic.

Many a philosopher in the course of his star gazing has fallen into a ditch—and worse. The fate of Professor Curie, the discoverer of radium, who, intent upon its possibilities, fell under the wheel of a wagon and was crushed to death, might be paralleled by several instances of the kind from lives of philosophers, notably that of Archimedes of Syracuse, who was so concentrated on a mathematical problem when its Roman besiegers at last burst into that city that he fell under their swords in spite of his impatient, "Noli turbare circulos meos!" Stepniak, too, the Russian refugee, was so engrossed with the study of nihilist questions in the course of a walk in a London suburb that he was run over and killed by a train at a level crossing.—London Chronicle.

Winning a Verdict.

Sir James Scarlett, the famous English lawyer, held that verdicts could be won without eloquence, and he proved it many a time in his own career. His skill in turning a failure into a success was wonderful. In a breach of promise case the defendant, Scarlett's client, was alleged to have been cajoled into an engagement by the plaintiff's mother. She was a witness in behalf of her daughter and completely baffled Scarlett, who cross examined her. But in his argument he exhibited his tact by this happy stroke of advocacy: "You saw, gentlemen of the jury, that I was but a child in her hands. What must my client have been?"

Era of the Olympiads.

The "era of the Olympiads," or the "Olympian era," began July 1, B. C. 776. An Olympiad was a period of four years, the games being celebrated every fourth year. When it was first proposed to use the Olympian era the earliest record that could be found was that of the victory of Choroebus, who won the great foot race long before horse racing and chariot racing were introduced. His victory was taken as the starting point of the Olympiads.

Friends Were Alarmed—Advised Change of Climate.

Miss Mildred Keller, 718 13th street, N. W., Washington, D. C., writes:

"I can safely recommend Peruna for catarrh. I had it for years and it would respond to no kind of treatment, or if it did it was only temporary, and on the slightest provocation the trouble would come back.

"I was in such a state that my friends were alarmed about me, and I was advised to leave this climate. Then I tried Peruna, and to my great joy found it helped me from the first dose I took, and a few bottles cured me.

"It built up my constitution, I regained my appetite, and I feel that I am perfectly well and strong."—Mildred Keller.

We have on file many thousand testimonials like the above. We can give our readers only a slight glimpse of the vast array of unsolicited endorsements Dr. Hartman is receiving.

The Old Fashioned Spelling Bee

The old fashioned Spelling Bee held in the Court house Monday evening proved a great success and as a fun maker would be hard to beat. There was a large audience present and all enjoyed themselves hugely. The sides were selected with James R. Hughes as Captain of one side and William Lyons, Captain of the other side. In opening, the audience arose and sang the verse of "My Country tis of Thee." Rev. W. M. Resrick of the Lutheran church then offered a fervent prayer after which the Spelling Bee started. General Beaver was master of ceremonies and gave out the words There was some good spellers in the bunch but they finally all went down except L. A. Schaefler who proved the King Pin of them all staying in it until the finish.

During the intervals Smiths orchestra rendered some excellent selections.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Presbyterian church under whose auspices the entertainment was given wish to extend their heartiest thanks to all who took part in the spelling bee or in any way contributed to its success. The receipts of the evening were about $75 out of which the expenses are to be paid. It is not known yet exactly what the expenses will be.

CORRESPONDENCE!

Unionville.

Bountiful showers have refreshed our vicinity here as well as others, and vegetation has put on a more promising appearance and what heart does not rejoice and return thanks to the Giver of all these good things, to God "from Whom all Blessings flow."

Mrs. L. B. Alexander has just returned from a ten days sojourn with her parents in Clearfield county, her father who is quite aged has been seriously ill.

Mrs. Joseph Brugar and Miss Hannah Thompson attended the funeral of Joseph Marshall in Buffalo Run last week.

Mrs. Andrew Thompson is here visiting relatives and friends, her home was here originally but she is now with her daughter, Mrs. John Brugar in Johnstown.

A very pretty wedding took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John Emeric last Tuesday evening when their daughter Almenda was united to Mr. Dunkle of Pittsburg. Abont 50 guests were present. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Piper of Milesburg, at 6 o'clock after this a bountiful supper was enjoyed by those present, and a good social time followed. Many handsome presents were received by the bride, all useful articles. The boys of the village could not allow the opportunity to pass without having the'r fun, and so they came in throngs, with bells, horns, pans, and anything they could lay hands on that would make the most noise, and they did full justice to the noisy part, and would not quit until the bride and groom made their appearance at the door and the light thrown full on their faces and some further reward had been given them for their trouble. We wish Mr. and Mrs. Dunkle a long life together of years filled with joy and happiness. Their home will be in Pittsburg.

A very sad funeral last week was that of Warren Lonsberry whose death has been published, having been fatally injured in the saw mill at Dix Run. It was one of the largest funerals ever held in this vicinity. Rev. Piper conducted the services. A widow and two little girls are lett who are sadly bereit, the father and husband having been taken so very suddenly. Also some brothers and sisters mourn deeply their loss. They have the sympathy of the entire community, may they fully realize that the hand of God has done this, and be comforted with the thought that he can never make a mistake.

Miss Sue Stover is sadly afflicted with poison at present.

Toe Hill

Wm. Borst, our expert rifle shot was in Tyrone Friday transacting business.

Wm. Garbrick and wife were pleasant callers at Mrs. Maria Millers, last Sunday.

Jessie, the beautiful little daughter of Joseph Stiver, is the cutest, and most interesting child in our town, especially when she is toddling after her pet crow Jack.

It seems funny that our Toe Hill women think the best time to catch soft water is when its raining hard, buggy I guess.

Sadie, I guess drank to much coffee she looks about eighteen forty.

Our up-to-date sportsman Mr. Joseph Stiver the man that performs acrobatic feats on the bicycle, was in Tyrone last week, riding on his muscle, thats all.

One of our fair damsels needs no eulogy—one would think she speaks for herself, how about it Nannie.

Foxes are more numerous this year than ever before, Sam says he saw two on turkey street, before daylight on Sunday morning, we wonder if he was just leaving town, ask Hester.

Stormstown and Fillmore's rock team crossed bats on Saturday afternoon. Score 5—17 in favor of Stormstown.

Sam Post says a mighty pain to love it is, and 'tis a pain that pains to miss, but of all pains the greatest pain is to love and love in vain.

George is as sick as a boy can get, when he is only troubled with liver complaint, unless the Mrs. thinks more favorable of the young man, Sadie will have to take the patient in hand it is hoped he will soon recover.

Why is Victor Way like D. J. Hicks cider barrel; because he is always dry.

Birt Stiver makes frequent trips to Stormstown, he knows where to find the pretty girls.

Jack Stiver jumped into a kettle of soft soap and scorched his whiskers thats all.

Milesburg.

Harry Peters and family of Pitcairn left for home on Saturday after a pleasant visit with their parents.

Mrs. John Fulton of Osceola is visiting friends in the burg.

Mrs. Cora Lucas of Clearfield and her sister Mrs. Mary Doroty of Pittsburg were recent visitors in the burg.

Miss Mary Wright of Antesfort is a guest of Mrs. S. M. Huff.

John Confer and wife of Snow Shoe passed through our burg on Saturday morning.

Mrs. Huff entertained a number of friends Friday evening at her pleasant home at this place.

Harry Peters and family left Saturday after a pleasant visit with their parents for their home at Pitcairn.

—It has been decided to send to China 1000 of the aged and infirm Chinese made homeless by the San Francisco fire, this arrangement being sanctioned by the Chinese minister.

TREASURER'S SALE OF UNSEATED LANDS FOR TAXES OF 1904—1905—Agreeable to the provisions of law relating to the sale of unseated tracts of land for the non-payment of taxes, notice is hereby given that there will be exposed at public sale or outcry, the following tracts or parts of tracts of unseated lands in Centre county Penna., for taxes due and unpaid thereon, at the Court house, in the borough of Bellefonte, on Monday June 11th, at 1 o'clock p. m., and to continue. INSECT ENGINEERING

FEATS OF THE CARPENTER BEE AND THE TUMBLEBUG.

The Sexton Beetle Is an Expert Gravedigger—Wonderful Skill of the Spider and the Great Strain That His Elastic Web Will Bear.

Long before man had thought of the saw the saw fly had used the same tool, made after the same fashion and used in the same way, for the purpose of making slits in the branches of trees so that she might have a secure place to deposit her eggs. The carpenter bee, with only the tools which nature has given her, cuts a round hole, the full diameter of her body, through thick boards and so makes a tunnel by which she can have a safe retreat in which to rear her young. The tumblebug, without derrick or machinery, rolls over large masses of dirt many times her own weight, and the sexton beetle will in a few hours bury beneath the ground the carcass of a comparatively large animal. All these feats require a degree of instinct which in a reasoning creature would be called engineering skill, but none of them is as wonderful as the feats performed by the spider. This extraordinary little animal has the faculty of propelling her threads directly against the wind, and by means of her slender cords she can haul up and suspend bodies which are many times her own weight.

Some years ago a paragraph went the rounds of the papers in which it was said that a spider had suspended an unfortunate mouse, raising it from the ground and leaving it to perish miserably between heaven and earth. Would be philosophers made great fun of the statement and ridiculed it unmercifully. I know not how true it was, but I know that it might have been true.

Some years ago in the village of Hasana in the state of New York a spider entangled a milk snake in her threads and actually raised it some distance from the ground, and this, too, in spite of the struggles of the reptile, which was alive.

By what process of engineering did this comparatively small and feeble insect succeed in overcoming and lifting up by mechanical means the mouse or the snake? The solution is easy enough if we only give the question a little thought.

The spider is furnished with one of the most efficient mechanical implements known to civilization—viz, a strong elastic thread. That the thread is strong is well known. Indeed, there are few substances that will support a greater strain than the silk of the silkworm or the spider, careful experiment having shown that for equal sizes the strength of these fibers exceeds that of common iron. But notwithstanding its strength the spider's thread would be useless as a mechanical power if it were not for its elasticity. The spider has no blocks or pulleys, and therefore it cannot cause the thread to divide up and run in different directions, but the elasticity of the thread more than makes up for this and renders possible the lifting of an animal much heavier than a mouse or a snake. This may require a little explanation.

Let us suppose that a child can lift a six pound weight one foot high and do this twenty times a minute. Furnish him with 350 rubber bands, each capable of pulling six pounds through one foot when stretched. Let these bands be attached to a wooden platform on which stands a pair of horses weighing 2,100 pounds, or rather more than a ton. If now the child will go to work and stretch these rubber bands singly, hooking each one up as it is stretched, in less than twenty minutes he will have raised the pair of horses one foot.

We thus see that the elasticity of the rubber bands enables the child to divide the weight of horses into 350 pieces of six pounds each, and, at the rate of a little less than one every three seconds, he lifts all these separate pieces one foot, so that the child easily lifts this enormous weight.

Each spider's thread acts like one of the elastic rubber bands. Let us suppose that the mouse or snake weighed half an ounce and that each thread is capable of supporting a grain and a half. The spider would have to connect the mouse with the point from which it was to be suspended with 150 threads, and if the little quadruped was once swung off his feet he would be powerless. By pulling successively on each thread, and shortening it a little, the mouse or snake might be raised to any height within the capacity of the building or structure in which the work was done. So that to those who have ridiculed the story we may justly say, "There are more things in heaven and earth than are dreamed of in your philosophy."

What object the spider could have had in his work I am unable to see. It may have been a dread of the harm which the mouse or snake might work or it may have been the hope that the decaying carcass would attract flies, which would furnish food for the engineer. I can vouch for the truth of the snake story, however, and the object of this article is to explain and render credible a very extraordinary feat of insect engineering.—Follies of Science.

Fame.

It is an indiscreet and troublesome ambition that cares so much about fame, about what the world says of us; to be always looking in the faces of others for approval; to be always anxious about the effect of what we do or say; to be always shouting to hear the echoes of our own voices.—Longfellow.

Laws are like cobwebs—if any trifling or powerless thing falls into them they hold it fast, while if it is something weightier it breaks through them and is off.—Solon.

A COAT OF ARMS.

How One May Be Acquired For a Consideration In England.

The practice of granting arms is still in vogue in England, Ireland, Scotland, Austria, Spain, Portugal, Italy, Germany, etc., and at times the pope, as sovereign pontiff, exercises the power.

Indeed, it is by patent or grant alone that a new family can legitimately acquire a coat of arms.

The modus operandi in England, for example, is as follows: The applicant for a patent of arms (from the crown) may employ any member he pleases of the heralds' college and through him present a memorial to the earl marshal of England, who acts for the crown in these matters, setting forth that he, the memorialist, is not entitled to arms or cannot prove his right to such and praying that his grace the earl marshal will issue his warrant to the kings of arms, authorizing them to grant and confirm to him due and proper armorial ensigns, to be borne according to the laws of heraldry by him and his descendants. This memorial is presented and a warrant is issued by the earl marshal, under which a patent of arms is made out, exhibiting a painting of the armorial ensigns granted, the royal arms of England, the arms of the earl marshal and those of the college and describing in official terms the proceedings that have taken place and a correct blazon of the arms. This patent is registered in the books of the heralds' college and receives the signatures of the garter and one or both of the provincial kings of arms.

A grant or patent of arms is made to a man and his male descendants. This gives him a fee simple of them—that is to say, to him and to his male descendants equally and altogether and to his female descendants in a qualified manner—i. e., for life, to bear the arms in a lozenge or impaled with their husbands' arms (if the husbands have arms), as arms can only be brought in by arms, or, if they be heiresses or coheiresses, on an escutcheon of pretense upon their husbands' shields, and in the last case their descendants inherit such maternal arms, but only as a quartering.—Nineteenth Century.

SMUGGLING.

It Was Considered a Legitimate Pursuit In Days Gone By.

A book by J. C. Wright entitled "In the Good Old Times" throws some interesting light on the ways of days gone by: "Of every three pounds of tea it was said that two were contraband. In fact, smuggling was considered a perfectly legitimate pursuit. Everybody was ready to profit by it, from the squire, who filled his cellars with cheap wine, and his wife, who adorned herself in cheap silks, to the shopkeeper, who got cheap groceries, or the laborer, who got high wages for work that was secret, unlawful and perilous. Even Adam Smith confessed to a weakness for smuggling and nobody was above bargaining to have a pipe or a hogshead put in his cellar at a low figure. But smuggling on a large scale was not carried on without bribery, perjury, informing, violence and murder."

Of the old time London watchman: "He was wrapped in a wide skirted heavy coat, a useful garment for protecting him from the cold, but not adapted to enable him to cope with the bullies who assaulted the weak and unprotected. He wore low shoes and a big broad brimmed hat, which could be turned up or down, worn forward or backward. The only means of defense which the watchman seems to have possessed was a staff something like a beadle's. In his left hand he carried his lantern."

In those primitive times pins were manufactured by hand and went through several stages of manufacture: Worker No. 1 formed the wire, No. 2 cut it into lengths, No. 3 smoothed it, the fourth man made the head, the fifth stuck it on, the sixth ground the point, the seventh washed and dried it, and it had to go through three more hands after that; hence it used to be a familiar proverb, "It takes ten men to make a pin."

Queer Judicial Decisions.

Some queer judicial decisions in Victoria are mentioned in the Australian Review of Reviews. A man who embezzled some money from a bank has received a sentence of nearly three years' imprisonment, while a man who murdered his mother by stabbing her to the heart received only one year, and another man, who shot his sister and killed her, was sentenced to only two years, and immediately after that a man who wrote a letter to another man threatening to kill him received three years' imprisonment.

Schoolboy Answers.

Here are some assertions from compositions by American schoolboys: "Franklin's father was a tallow chandelier." "The climate of North America is embracing." "This song is in the key of B flap." "There are five bowels—a, e, i, o and u." "The snow is painting the town white." "He lived in Cambridgeport." "Man is in the muscular gender because it denotes a male." "They went to the foolish (Polish) church." Question: "What is geography?" Answer: "Geography is round, like a ball."

Era of Actium.

The "era of Actium," adopted during the early days of the Roman empire, commemorates the great victory gained by Octavius over the troops of Antony and Cleopatra, Jan. 1, B. C. 30. It was often used among the Romans both in writing and colloquially, just as in England people speak of events as occurring before or after the conquest, or as persons in this country frequently refer to events as having happened before or after the war.

THE VATICAN PALACE.

Its Existence Is Mainly Due to the Builder Pope, Nicholas V.

The present existence of the Vatican palace is principally due to Nicholas V., the builder pope, whose gigantic scheme would startle a modern architect. His plan was to build the church of St. Peter's as a starting point and then to construct one vast central habitat for the papal administration, covering the whole of what is called the Borgo, from the castle of Sant' Angelo to the cathedral. In ancient times a portico, or covered way supported on columns, led from the bridge to the church, and it was probably from this real structure that Nicholas began his imaginary one, only a small part of which was ever completed. That small portion alone comprises the basilica and the Vatican palace, which together form by far the greatest continuous mass of buildings in the world. The Coliseum is 195 yards long by 156 broad, including the thickness of the walls. St. Peter's church alone is 205 yards long and 156 broad, so that the whole Coliseum would easily stand upon the ground plan of the church, while the Vatican palace is more than half as large again.

Nicholas V. died in 1455, and the oldest parts of the present Vatican palace are not older than his reign. They are generally known as the Torre Borgia, from having been inhabited by Alexander VI., who died of poison in the third of the rooms now occupied by the library, counting from the library side. The windows of these rooms look upon the large square court of the Belvedere, and that part of the palace is not visible from without.

Portions of the substructure of the earlier building were no doubt utilized by Nicholas, and the secret gallery which connects the Vatican with the mausoleum of Hadrian is generally attributed to Pope John XXIII., who died in 1417, but on the whole it may be said that the Vatican palace is originally a building of the period of the renaissance, to which all successive popes have made additions.

AN INDIAN THEORY.

The Cause of Earthquakes, Tidal Waves and Volcanoes.

"When I lived among the Dakotas," said an old army officer, "I found men who, like Buddha, gave seven years of their lives to prayer and fasting, that they might become pure in the sight of God, or the Great Spirit, as they call that being. After they have proved themselves before their people by performing so called miracles, such as holding their hands and arms in boiling water and not being burned, shot with poisoned arrows and not harmed, bitten by rattlesnakes and not poisoned and many other tests that I have witnessed, they are accepted as holy or wise men. The Indians believe that they can get the word direct from God, or the Great Spirit, the same as the wise men and seers of old used to do. I have asked these intelligences to tell me about the cause of earthquakes and tidal waves, and they explain it like this:

"They say volcanoes are the safety valves of the earth; that the rim of the earth is gradually cooling. As it cools it contracts, making the pressure on the hot lava in the interior greater. At last something must give way, this rim must crack open, or the volcanoes must burst forth and emit this compressed lava.

"Sometimes it is relieved in one way, sometimes in another. Should the earth crack in midocean, where the crust is usually thinner, then the waters of the ocean fill in, and there is a great explosion as the water strikes this great bed of hot lava, large masses of the rim are thrown up, and islands appear. Sometimes they stay on the surface of the ocean, sometimes they fall back and are again covered with water, but that upheaval so lifts the water that a great wave is started for the shore that carries death and destruction in its way.

"Many of the old safety valves in the earth are now closing up; only a few remain. The crust is becoming so thick that the cooling process is more slow."—Seattle Times.

Deference to Royalty.

On the occasion of a visit by the king of Italy to Vesuvius an Italian newspaper announced that "the eruption had the honor of being witnessed by his majesty." It was a German paper which once stated that a certain royal prince "was graciously pleased to be born yesterday." Equally courtier-like was an army officer in attendance on the king of Spain. The king asked him what was the time. The courtier fumbled for his watch, but could not find it, then respectfully replied, "Whatever time your majesty pleases."

Octopus and Conger Eel.

Conger eels hunt for the octopus and, when found, proceed to browse on its limbs. The octopus tries to hug the slippery, slimy conger tight, but in vain, and, finding its limbs growing less, discharges its ink in the face of the foe and, under cover of the turbid water, beats a hasty retreat. It is to escape the too pressing attention of its foes that the octopus possesses the power of changing its color to correspond with that of its surroundings.

Three of a Kind and a Pair.

Hewitt—Our actor friend claimed that he played to a full house last night, and it turned out there were only five people in the audience. Jewett—Well, it was the regulation full house. There were three men in the gallery and a man and his wife downstairs.—New York Press.

How Scores of Bellefonte People Obtain Relief.

If it really were known how many Bellefonte residents have been cured of stomach trouble and digestion by Dr. Davis' Prescription, it might perhaps surprise you, but what is more surprising is the fact that any one will continue to suffer with heart burn, sour stomach, water brash, sick headache, mental depression, nausea, and other distressing symptoms of dyspepsia when there is a remedy of such great merit that it almost invariably benefits every one that tries it. Pepsicola Tablets are the prescription of Dr. Davis, a physician who devoted a lifetime to the study of stomach trouble, and if your food does not agree with you, if you are tired, nervous, worn out, low spirited and your energy at low par, it may interest you to know that no other prescription in this world has a greater record of cures behind it, and there is nothing more certain to give you relief. Mr. C. M. Parrish will tell you that although Pepsikola is sold on the fairest kind of a money back plan, not more than two in one hundred ever come back for their money. This is the surest evidence of its marvelous curative properties, but so that there may not be the least doubt in your mind as to what Pepsikola will do for you Mr. Parrish will hand your quarter right back to you if you should fail to receive the benefit you look for.

Travelling Is Dangerous

Constant motion jars the kidneys which are kept in place in the body by delicate attachments. This is the reason that travellers, trainmen, street car men, teamsters and all who drive very much suffer from kidney disease in some form. Foley's Kidney Cure strengthens the kidneys and cures all forms of kidney and bladder disease. Geo. E. Hausan, locomotive engineer, Lima, O., writes: "Constant vibration of the engine caused me a great deal of trouble with my kidneys, and I got no relief until I used Foley's Kidney Cure." Sold by C. M. Parrish.

Rool of Honor

"Good Housekeeping," a well known household national magazine voluntarily made a thorough examination and test of None-Such Mince Meat, and placed it without reservation upon its roll of honor.

In the March number of Good Housekeeping, in the department of "Pure Food Assurance," we find

"None-Such Mince Meat, Merrill-Soule Co., Syracuse, a semi-moist condensed compound of beef, apples, spices, sugar, raisins, currants, boiled cider and salt, without other preservatives or adulterants, no artificial coloring, produced under conditions as near to sanitary perfections as possible."

This guarantee, which could not be bought at any price, ought to satisfy the most particular house-wife. The sale of one million packages a month seems to prove the statement to be true. Your grocer sells None-Such. Try it, and satisfy yourself. You are the one.

A FAMOUS REMEDY

I cured MY cough with German Syrup!"
He wrote to Dr. G. G. Green;
"An' as true as I tell you, doctor dear,
I'm feelin' finer than ever I've been!"

The poor consumptive should not be the victim of experiment, as he often is, but the moment the dread disease manifests its presence he should be given Boschee's German Syrup—a pure, non-alcoholic medicine that is made specially for the cure of consumption, and has a world-wide fame as a certain remedy for catarrh, colds, coughs, croup, sore throat and all bronchial affections in old and young. It is sold in all civilized countries, and has been famous as a consumption cure for almost half a century.

Trial bottle, 25c. Big bottle, 75c. At all druggists throughout the world.

What Is Foley's Kidney Cure?

Answer: It is made from a prescription of a leading Chicago physician, and one of the most eminent in the country. The ingredients are the purest that money can buy, and are scientifically combined to get their utmost value. Sold by C. M. Parrish.

A Lesson In Health.

Healthy kidneys filter the impurities from the blood, and unless they do this good health is impossible. Foley's Kidney Cure makes sound kidneys and will positively cure all forms of kidney and bladder disease. It strengthens the whole system. Sold by C. M. Parrish.

If you ever bought a box of Witch Hazel Salve that failed to give satisfaction the chances are it did not have the name "E. C. DeWitt & Co." printed on the wrapper and pressed in the box. The original DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve never fails to give satisfaction for burns, sores, boils, tetter, cracked hands, etc. For blind, bleeding, itching and protruding Piles it affords almost immediate relief. It stops the pain. Sold by Green's Pharmacy.

The Word "Asphalt."

Of deceitful ancestry is the word "asphalt." Apparently it means "not slippery." The Greeks themselves were tempted to derive "asphaltos" from "a," not, and "sphallo," make to fall or slip. However, the word is really of unknown barbarian origin—Phoenician, some say. Asphalt was in use very early in history. It is said to have been the slime with which the infant Moses' ark of bulrushes was daubed and which the builders of the tower of Babel used instead of mortar.

Butchery In War.

In one of the Du Guesclin's victories so many English were taken captive that even the humblest soldier among the French had one or more prisoners. The victors, however, fell to quarreling, and, ill feeling becoming rife in the French army in consequence of these quarrels over the prisoners, Du Guesclin ordered all the captives to be butchered, and the brutal order was carried out.

A Cautious Lover.

A correspondent of the London Globe tells of a gilded youth who left instructions at a jeweler's shop for the inscription of an engagement ring he had just bought. He wanted it inscribed, "From Bertie to Maud." As he left he turned back and added as an after thought, "I shouldn't—ah—cut 'Maud' too deep, don't you know."

Sidney Krumrine Sells Hyomei Under Guarantee of Cure.

The changeable weather of Spring is directly responsible for the prevalence of catarrhal troubles in Bellefonte at the present time.

As a result Sidney Krumrine had a larger sale for Hyomei the past week than ever before in the years that he has handled this reliable treatment for the cure of catarrh.

If there is a single catarrhal germ in the system, Hyomei will search it out and absolutely destroy it, completely eradicating the trouble. The remedy has made so many cures among Sidney Krumrine's customers that he offers to pay for it himself if it does not benefit even the worst case of catarrh

The complete outfit costs only $1, consisting of an inhaler, medicine dropper, and bottle of Hyomei, while extra bottles of Hyomei can be obtained for 50 cents. There will not be even this small expense if Hyomei does no cure, as Sidney Krumrine will return your money.

FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE
Makes Kidneys and Bladder Right

"COMPLETELY DISCOURAGED"

Is the feeling and plaint of women who are "run-down" so low that work drags, head aches, back ackes, hands tremble, voice quivers, little things annoy and "everything goes wrong."

Look the other way just a minute and see what Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has done for more than a half-million women in the last thirty years.

What it has done for others it can do for you.

Believing that alcoholic, stimulating medicines were doing much harm, Doctor R. V. Pierce turned his investigating mind upon the problem of producing a remedy for the use of weak and suffering women that should be free from alcohol and at the same time EFFECTIVE AND SAFE.

Nature has provided abundantly for such needs and Dr. Pierce found in native medicinal plants such as the roots of GOLDEN SEAL, LADY'S SLIPPER, BLACK COHOSH, UNICORN and BLUE COHOSH, the needed medicinal properties which by peculiar processes strictly his own, without the use of alcohol he has extracted, preserved and combined in exact proportions to secure from each its best effect. Thus compounded his "FAVORITE PRESCRIPTION" is a remedy for the pains and drains, weaknesses and inflammation of the uterine system that has won world-wide fame by curing more than ninety-nine out of every hundred who have used it properly.

In taking this you will know what you take and take what you know to be good.

If in any doubt as to what is best for you, write and ask advice of Dr. R. V. Pierce, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y., and reliable medical advice will be sent you by return mail in securely sealed envelope. All correspondence free and strictly confidential.

Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets the favorite family laxative. One "Pellet" a laxative, two "Pellets" a cathartic dose.

Impoverished Soil

Impoverished soil, like impoverished blood, needs a proper fertilizer. A chemist by analyzing the soil can tell you what fertilizer to use for different products.

If your blood is impoverished your doctor will tell you what you need to fertilize it and give it the rich, red corpuscles that are lacking in it. It may be you need a tonic, but more likely you need a concentrated fat food, and fat is the element lacking in your system.

There is no food that is so easily digested and assimilated as

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil

It will nourish and strengthen the body when milk and cream fail to do it. Scott's Emulsion is always the same; always palatable and always beneficial where the body is wasting from any cause, either in children or adults.

Had No Time to Vote.

President Zachary Taylor in 1810, when only twenty-two years of age, was appointed to a lieutenancy in the regular army. He served in the army up to or near the time of his nomination for the presidency in 1848. After he had carried off the prize friends of Henry Clay and others who wanted the nomination sneeringly spoke of Taylor as an ignorant frontier colonel, who had not voted for forty years. It is probable he had not voted, as he had been away from home in the military service most of the time and came into prominence only through his brilliant military record in the Mexican war.

Found Underground Chinese Colony.

Seattle, May 23.—An underground Chinese colony, similar to that which existed in San Francisco, has been discovered here by city officials. By burrowing under buildings, sidewalks and alleys, the Chinese have excavated passageways to rooms in which gambling and opium smoking is carried on. Many of the rooms are lighted by electricity. Some of the passageways extend for half a block or more and are many feet below sub-cellars and sidewalks.

RURAL WATER SUPPLY.

Its Sanitary Condition Not What It Ought to Be.

When such great sums of money are being expended by city governments that the inhabitants of towns may have a sanitary water supply it seems strange that the supply in rural towns should receive little or no attention. This latter population may seem relatively insignificant, but it comprises about 40,000,000 souls. This means that those 40,000,000 people are drinking the water most available without a thought of its sanitary condition.

These various sources of supply, whether wells, springs or small streams, are similarly unreliable for furnishing drinking water. The statistics of mortality in the country are very indefinite, but even these show that the rural population is not as free from illness as it should be. And though everywhere the rural death rate is lower than the urban death rate, yet the lowering in the country has not been as great as in the city. An examination of typhoid statistics shows that the death rate of other diseases is generally lower in the country than in the city, but the prevalence of typhoid is almost equal to if not greater in the rural districts than in the cities.

Several instances have been reported which show the rural typhoid rate to be ten times greater than the urban rate for the same district. To particularize, a certain district in central Pennsylvania proves this fact. It is made up of a rural population with 100 inhabitants to the square mile. It is a region of fine farms, wild mountains and woods, country residences and picnic groves. And in this valley there has been as much typhoid fever as in the city of Philadelphia.

Sad as this condition is, there seems to be no remedy for it. The sources of a city water supply are few and the city government easily controls the conditions affecting it. But what can be done when the sources of supply are numbered by the thousands? A mint of money and an army of chemists would not be sufficient to give the same care to the country supply that is given to that of the city.—New York Herald.

SNOWSLIDES OF ROCKIES.

Peril of Mountains Takes Its Toll of Life and Property.

Every year the life of a miner in the high mountain regions is menaced by the avalanche or snowslide, and every year brings its list of casualities and of hairbreadth escapes. The story of snowslides would fill a book and would be a thrilling, tragic and in some cases a grewsome one.

Men have ridden hundreds of feet on the back of a snowslide and have escaped unhurt. Others have been caught and buried so deep and in such uncertain spots that their bodies have not been discovered until the melting of the snow in the following spring.

Some have been caught as they were walking, but a few steps from the boarding house to the mine, or while emptying a car on the mine dump. Not infrequently men have found themselves temporarily imprisoned by the entrance of the mine being closed by a slide while they were at work and have had to dig their way out.

A Chinese cook at one of the Idaho mines stepped outside his kitchen door for a moment and was caught and hurled with the slide 1,000 feet down the hillside and his body was not recovered till the following spring.

Such incidents denote the extreme suddenness, power and velocity of the slide. Little or no warning is given, a roar, a cloud of snow obscuring the sight of the real slide, and in a moment thousands of tons of snow, mingled with trees and debris, are shot down the gulch or the slope of a mountain as from the mouth of a cannon. In a few seconds all is over and the scenery of the little valley is completely changed.—Mines and Minerals.

WILL LOSE BUSINESS IN BRITAIN

English Concern to Take Over Mutual's Policyholders' Interests.

London, May ..—An important development has taken place in connection with the interests of policyholders of the Mutual Life Insurance company of New York living in Great Britain. Last week the North British and Mercantile Insurance company proposed to take over the New York Mutual Life's holders' interests on the payment of the same premium they are now paying, without further medical examination and with liberal privileges and an immediate participation in the profits of the company. This was found to be practicable with regard to policies representing $45,000,000 and subject to immediate full surrender value. With regard to unmatured policies, the North British and Mercantile company declared it was prepared to negotiate for these on liberal terms.

Six Acres Burned Over.

Gulfport, Miss., May ..—The enormous plant of the New Orleans Naval Stores company and S. Holter & Co. were totally destroyed by fire, six acres occupied by the resin yards, warehouses, commissary and storage rooms being entirely swept by the flames. The fire is supposed to have originated in loose hay in the commissary. The loss was about $400,000, with $300,000 insurance.

Shot to Death By Stepson.

Spartansburg, S. C., May ..—P. L. Cannon was shot to death on the principal business street here by his stepson, Ubi V. Millicent, a student at Wofferd College, because of ill treatment to his mother by Cannon. Millicent gave no warning, but approached Cannon as he was talking to a friend and began firing with a Winchester

QUAINT PRESENTS.

Odd Wedding Gifts That Have Been Received by Celebrities.

Celebrities are often the recipients of quaint presents. For instance, on the marriage of Queen Victoria the farmers of East and West Pennard, Somersetshire, wishing to show their loyalty, manufactured from the milk of 1,600 cows an immense cheese nine feet in circumference. The gift was graciously accepted and was stored at Buckingham palace, where it would undoubtedly have found its way to the royal table had not its donors wished to exhibit it as an advertisement. Their request was granted, but after it had been exhibited and the audience would have returned it her majesty signified that owing to the altered conditions she could not accept it as a gift.

An equally homely gift was made to the late King Charles of Wurtemburg on the morning of his marriage to Princess Olga of Russia. A peasant woman sent him a pair of trousers of her own design, with a note expressing the hope that they might be found a better cut and fit than those which she had last had the honor of making his majesty wear.

The Italian singer, Signor Mario, inspired a hopeless passion in the hearts of so many women that at the time of his wedding some of this affection found expression in various strange gifts. One was in the shape of a cushion stuffed with tresses from the heads of many of his hopeless admirers. Another was from a lady in Munich who had had one of her teeth set in a scarfpin surrounded with pearls and emeralds. In an accompanying note she expressed the hope that by sometimes wearing the gift he might be reminded of his unknown worshiper.—New York Herald.

THE FIRST SPECTACLES.

They Were Made In Italy In the Thirteenth Century.

Spectacles were invented late in the thirteenth century. The use of glass to aid the sight of defective eyes is, however, much older. Nero looked through a concave glass in watching the gladiatorial games, and many other historical men of his day were dependent on similar devices for lengthening their sight.

Till the latter part of the thirteenth century only the single glass was in use. In 1290 the double glass was invented, and in the fourteenth century spectacles were used quite frequently by the very wealthy and high born, although they were still so scarce that they were bequeathed in wills with all the elaborate care that marked the disposition of a feudal estate. The first spectacles were made in Italy.

Somewhat later the manufacture of cheaper glasses sprang up in Holland, and it spread late in the fourteenth century to Germany. Nuremberg and Rathenow acquired fame for their glasses between 1490 and 1500.

For many years glasses were used only as a means of aiding bad eyes, until the fashion of wearing merely for the sake of wearing them sprang up in Spain. It spread rapidly to the rest of the continent and brought about the transformation of the old thirteenth century spectacles into eyeglasses and eventually into the monocle.

Quicksilver.

Quicksilver is found in veins of rocks, like gold, silver and other metals. Sometimes the tiny globules of the mercury appear in the interstices of the rock, but usually it is found in the form of cinnabar, a chemical compound containing 13.8 per cent of sulphur and 86.2 per cent mercury. When pure and reduced to a powder it is a bright red color.

The principal uses of quicksilver are for removing free gold and silver in placer and quartz mining; for manufacturing vermillion paints and dyes, for backing mirrors, for making thermometers and many other scientific instruments.

What Water Did.

A certain liquor dealer, a hard headed old Scot, grew rich in the trade. After he had grown rich the old man built himself a fine house, a limestone mansion on the hill, with a park around it, with conservatories, stables and outbuildings—in a word, a palace. One day the old Scot rode in the omnibus past his fine house. A temperance man pointed up at the grand edifice and said, with a sneer, "It was no whisky built that, wasn't it?" "Na, na, man; the water," the Scot answered.—London Mail.

The First Sapphire.

There is an Indian legend that Brahma, the creator, once committed a sin that he might know the torments of remorse and thus be able to sympathize with mortals. But the moment he had committed it he began repeating the mantras, or prayers of purification, and in his grief dropped on the earth a tear, the hottest that ever fell from an eye, and from it was formed the first sapphire.

Origin of "Chauffeur."

There were chauffeurs long before automobiles. History tells us that about the year 1795 men strangely accoutered, their faces covered with soot and their eyes carefully disguised, entered by night farms and lonely habitations and committed all sorts of depredations. They garroted their victims, dragged them before a great fire, where they burned the soles of their feet and demanded information as to the whereabouts of their money and jewels; hence they were called "chauffeurs," a name which frightened so much our good grandmothers.—Paris Figaro.
